Narrative Unit 2

Reading and talking about text

Note for adults

Read this familiar story opening to your child. Ask your child to continue telling the story in the first person, as if they were Little Red Riding Hood.

Once upon a time...

- Listen to the beginning of this story.
- Carry on telling the story as if you were the main character.

Once upon a time, when I was very little, I lived in a cottage near the woods with my mum and dad. One day, my mother packed a basket of food and said to me, “Your grandmother is not feeling well, so I think we should take her some nice food. Will you take this to her?”

“Of course, Mum,” I said.

“Do be careful, dear,” Mum continued.
“You need to go through the woods, but don’t go off the path, will you?”

“Of course not,” I replied as I grabbed the basket, swung on my lovely new red cloak and set off through the woods.

It was a bright sunny day, but as I went under the trees it became gloomy and I sang to myself to keep cheerful.

Suddenly...
